COMMUNISTS THREATEN TO BREAK UP FARMER-LABOR THIRD PARTY CONVENTION

Calls to Farmers and Workers Of Nation to Support La Follette In Race For The Presidency

464 Women To Attend Demmy Convention

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—At least 464 women will attend the Democratic National Convention at delegates or alternates. Of this number it was made known at the Democratic National Committee headquarters here today, 143 will sit as delegates-at-large, 34 as district delegates, 78 as alternates-at-large and 209 as district delegates. These figures, it was explained, do not include all of the women delegates and alternates from Virginia nor any from Alabama.

The Democratic National Committee has had "fifty-fifty" representation for men and women since 1920. In 1912 only two more women; in 1916 at St. Louis, 15 delegates and 7 alternates; and, while in 1920, at San Francisco, there were 96 women delegates and 202 alternates.

CONVENTION HALL, ST. PAUL, MINN., June 17.—(By the United Press)—A call to farmers and workers of the nation to unite in a National Farmer-Labor party—backing Senator Robert M. La Follette as presidential candidate—was sounded here today in the keynote speech of Chairman Wm. Mahoney, opening the "third party" convention.

The time is ripe for the overthrow of the old line Republican and Democratic parties, Mahoney told the assembled delegates representing the western revolt against existing economic conditions. The various shades of radicals must forget their animosities and blend themselves into a composite group behind one presidential nominee, he declared. His entire speech was written around La Follette as the man.

In one breath criticizing La Follette for his attack upon the Communist elements in the convention, Mahoney in the next breath pointed to him as the logical man to unite the dissatisfied forces of the nation into a powerful group with some hope of successfully overthrowing the major parties.

Mahoney contended that La Follette had been "misted" into a denunciation of the convention.

"We are meeting in response to sentiment of the great mass of the farmers and workers for a distinct Farmer-Labor party," Mahoney, who is secretary, (Continued On Page Three)

RADICALS JAM PLANS OF PARTY ORGANIZERS

(By Paul R. Mallon)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CONVENTION HALL, ST. PAUL, June 17.—(By the United Press)—Communists threatened to break up the "third party" convention just as it got under way here today, which Senator Robert M. La Follette says represented the plans for Farmer-Labor organizers in the convention which was called to bind these-called radical groups of the nation into a new party.

Pre-convention organization was held at a complete standstill by the Communists who desire action on their own program.

Their wrath was first aroused when leaders of the various State Farmer-Labor parties of the northwest decided that they must enter the convention under the guise of trade unions and not as representatives of their Communist parties.

The resultant clash brought forth so much fire works that convention leaders agreed to let the Communists appeal to the floor of the convention and there fight out their case.

Of the three pre-convention committees that have been functioning the last three days, the Communists have humpered every one so that none of them can make a complete report. The organization committee is tied up over a plan of launching the proposed third party; the platform committee cannot agree on a draft, and the nominations committee is deadlocked over the plan of advancing the presidential candidacy of La Follette.

As the arrival of Temporary Chairman William Mahoney, who opened the convention to order, there was not a delegate in the big theatre auditorium who would hazard a guess as to how or where the convention would end.

Mahoney and his supporters, who apparently have the upper hand—though they failed to steam roll the Communists into submission thus far—have decided to enter to the candidacy of La Follette. They do not wish to do anything to injure him from running as an independent Republican if he decides not to bolt the party completely and seek the support of the Farmer-Labor party.

Mahoney thinks he will succeed in his plan to have the convention name a committee of 96 members, two from each state, and through that committee develop state organizations.

The committee would work for La Follette until such a time as he might decide not to bolt. Then an independent third party ticket would be put in the field.

France Not To Evacuate Ruhr Until Germany Gives Guarantees

PARIS, June 17.—(By the United Press)—France accepts the Dawes program for settlement of reparations unreservedly, but owing to conditions in Germany, cannot evacuate the Ruhr before Germany fulfills the guarantees laid down in the experts' report. Premier Herriot, told the chamber of deputies this afternoon in outlining the policy of his government.

The new government of the Left is opposed to a "hostile policy of force and occupation of ex-enemy territory," Herriot said, and will do its utmost to placate the German Socialists.

The government is preparing for resumption of relations with Russia, but will take all necessary precautions to protect French interests.

"We will continue to defend our treaty rights against Germany," the premier added.

His declaration promises sincere application of the income tax law with a revision of the direct taxes, especially those on food and the business turnover, in the next budget.

Reduction of the floating debt by large consolidation operations is on the ministerial program, as well as reorganization and reduction of the army.

Magnus Johnson Wins Easily In Primaries In Minnesota

ST. PAUL, MINN., June 17.—(By the United Press)—Magnus Johnson walked away from Communist opposition and will be the Farmer-Labor nominee for U. S. senator, according to early returns from the state primary today.

Johnson will run against Ole O. Sageng or Judge Oscar Hallam, as the Republican nominee. Hallam had a decided lead over Sageng at an early hour, but the latter is expected to pick up a lead on county returns.

Thomas D. Schull, tenth district congressman, seeking the Republican senatorial nomination, was also ahead of Sageng on early returns. The tabulation so far, however, contains mostly Twin City and Duluth votes where Hallam and Schull had their strength.

Theodore Christianson, Dawson publisher, was leading the Republican field for the nomination for governor, Curtis M. Johnson was next and Mayor George P. Leach, of Minneapolis, is close behind.

The Farmer-Labor ranks, Tom Davis and Floyd Olson, both of Minneapolis, were staging a bitter fight for the nomination for governor. Olson was leading with Twin City returns almost complete, but Davis was gaining rapidly as country returns came in slowly.

The vote for Magnus Johnson in the Twin Cities was heavier than anticipated. Including St. Paul complete and scattering precincts from over the state, a total of 747 out of 3,530 precincts gave Johnson 37,043; Palmer Davies, Communist, 1,109 and Michael Perch, Socialist, 3,213.

Two Perish As Raft Overturns

AKRON, O., June 17.—(By the United Press)—A double tragedy ushered in the summer vacation for Akron school children today.

Alvin Miller, 14, and his brother Keith, 12, were drowned when the raft on which they were floating, upset in a pond near here.

The boys had been sent up in the country for an one-day vacation. They were on their last-remembered summer vacation. Policemen are searching for their bodies.

A playmate, who was with the Miller boys when the raft tipped, had been constructed, turned over, succeeded in swimming to shore.

Yale Grads Attack Automobiles; Break Windshields; Steal Cushions

NEW HAVEN, CONN., June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—Complaint that Yale graduates were smashing automobile windshields and otherwise damaging machines parked in the neighborhood of Woolsey Hall, where the senior prom was in progress early today, brought one hundred police to the scene. A sedan was drawn about the building and the officers patrolled the streets for several blocks about the campus.

Because of the noise outside, the orchestra inside the hall had been obliged to cease furnishing music for the dancers.

According to the police, scores of automobiles in the street were damaged, many seat cushions being removed and tossed or kicked about. Glass from the broken windshields littered the streets.

Shortly after the arrival of the police some one set fire to a mobile and the firemen were called to extinguish the blaze. Quiet was restored without arrests.

The prom was attended exclusively by seniors and guests. The graduates were making merry in commencement festivities.

Communists Ready to Support La Follette On Certain Conditions

BY DAID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924
ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin will be given another opportunity to run for the Presidency on the Farmer-Labor-Progressive ticket. His repudiation of the communists who are assembled here for conference has led to bitter feeling but the extreme radicals in the Farmer-Labor movement are willing to abide by the strategy of the more conservative comrades and present the platform of this convention to the Wisconsin Senator for his endorsement. If he accepts he must agree to run on the platform adopted here.

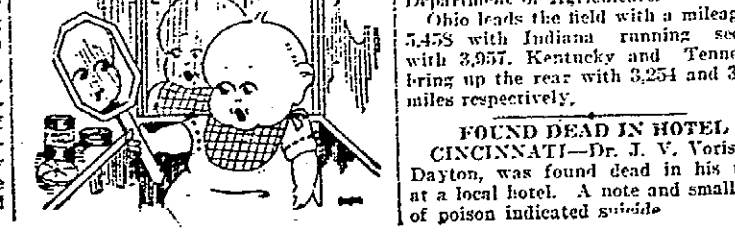

The platform will not be communist, according to C. E. Ruthenberg, secretary of the Workers' party of America and an avowed communist. He recognizes that his group is in the minority here and simply says that if La Follette is to receive the nomination of the delegates here he must agree to take the platform.

"We are not interested in individuals," said Mr. Ruthenberg, "but in principles and parties. Out of this conference, we hope will grow a third party. If Senator La Follette doesn't accept we will probably nominate Dr. J. V. Foris."

BRITISH ENVOY UNDER SIEGE IN LEGATION IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 17.—(By the United Press)—Peaceful settlement of the dispute between British Diplomat Agent Cummins and the Mexican government appeared in prospect today.

The diplomatic corps met at the British Legation and held a long discussion of the case, causing a report that the foreign office in London probably will advise Cummins to ask for his recall and leave peacefully in compliance with the demand of President Obregon.

Cummins was still barricaded in the Legation this morning, with detectives and gendarmes patrolling the streets around the building.

The Union Jack floated defiantly over the Legation building.

A man served and a woman attendant who left the Legation yesterday were not allowed to return.

The government, however, did permit Cummins to have a razor and a tooth brush, after intervention by the British consul general, who delivered the articles in person to the embattled envoy.

The consul said he also managed to take in a scone of soap and other articles.

Riot As Rhode Island State Senate Meets

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—A riot followed an attempt today by Republicans to prevent Lieutenant Governor Tamm from presiding over today's session of the state senate. Men and women were trampled upon by the political combatants.

Republican and Democratic senators clashed with spectators taking sides in a free-for-all fist fight.

Prepared to take control of the senate, the Republican senators buckled up by deputy sheriffs, assigned to duty by High Sheriff Jonathan Andrews, arrived early for today's session. The chamber and galleries were crowded. While Lieutenant Governor Tamm, a democrat, was in the doorway of the senate lobby, Senator Arthur A. Sherman, Republican, mounted the rostrum and called the senate to order. Immediately the senate was in an uproar. The cheering of partisans, word was sent to Governor Flynn that a riot was in progress.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Andrews took a place on the floor and succeeded in separating the combatants. Governor Flynn, pushed his way through the crowd, mounted the rostrum and cautioned the

Governor Fields To Make Fight For Abrogation Of Two-thirds Rule In Democratic Convention

NEW YORK, June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—The possibility of abrogating the time-honored two-thirds rule governing the nomination of candidates by the National Democratic Convention continues today to be most discussed topic among the leaders and delegates already assembled here. It is generally believed that, unless a move for discontinuance of the rule comes from the McAdoo forces, the procedure which has been followed in the Democratic gatherings since the days of Andrew Jackson will be followed in the coming convocation.

The arrival tomorrow of William G. McAdoo to lead his convention forces, may result in a definite announcement as to his attitude.

The sentiment of the McAdoo men already here on this question was described last night by Judge David Ladd (Rockwell, Mr. McAdoo's manager, as follows:

"The friends of Mr. McAdoo did not start the agitation for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. George E. Brennan is entitled to that distinction. We shall not object if Mr. Brennan and his followers start a drive to do away with the rule, which every one admits is anarchic, and out of harmony with the spirit of democracy. The Republicans operate under a majority rule."

Although no definite statement has come from the Smith forces as to the attitude on this question it is asserted by his followers that he prefers to slide by the present procedure.

Despite the fact that close friends of Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, declared that he was not a candidate for the chairmanship of the rules committee, it was freely predicted by well informed observers and leaders today that he would be drafted for the post.

In order to be assured of a greater radio audience, the speech of the temporary chairman of the convention, usually delivered in the afternoon, will be postponed until the first night of the (Continued On Page Three)

Says Truth of Murder Will Never Be Known

CHICAGO, June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—Nathan Leopold, Jr., University graduate student and millionaire's son, awaiting trial with Richard Loeb, also the son of a millionaire, on charges of kidnapping and slaying, Robert Froese, son of a third millionaire, who they have admitted, declares the real story of the boy's death never will be told, although previously they have maintained they kidnapped and killed for a thrill and the $10,000 they demanded as a ransom, said today's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Boys are being given intricate physical and psychological tests by psychiatrists whose reports will be the basis of the defense in their trial set for August 4.

Leopold is quoted by the newspaper as saying, "The two defense attorneys are examining Loeb and I and Loeb and myself will ever know anything regarding the plan or execution of it that resulted in the double indictment of the two for capital offenses."

"The world will be kept in ignorance," Leopold is quoted as saying, "as to how long it was in the mind of either of us, who proposed the matter, who was the persuasive one, who executed it."

He said both he and Loeb had told the entire truth to the examining authorities.

Leopold indicated the tests being made are an annoyance and a bore.

President of France Enjoys Bull Fighting

Doumergue, France's new president, is a true son of Midi, as southern France is called, even to the extent of being a fervent advocate of bull fighting, which is almost as favorite a sport there as in neighboring Spain. Asked for his opinion regarding bull fighting, the president is quoted as replying:

"My present position hardly allows me to reply to newspaper demands for interviews, but I find no difficulty in assuring you that my opinion of bull fighting has never varied. This sight, very dear to our compatriots of Midi, still pleases me. Many of those who criticize it are extremely lenient in regard to other shows which are really not equal to it from any viewpoint."

Body of Woman Seen In Gorge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 17.—(By the Associated Press)—The body of a woman was sighted today floating on a small rock near the Rock of Ages, close to the Cave of the Winds, in the gorge between the Horseshoe and American Falls on the American side.

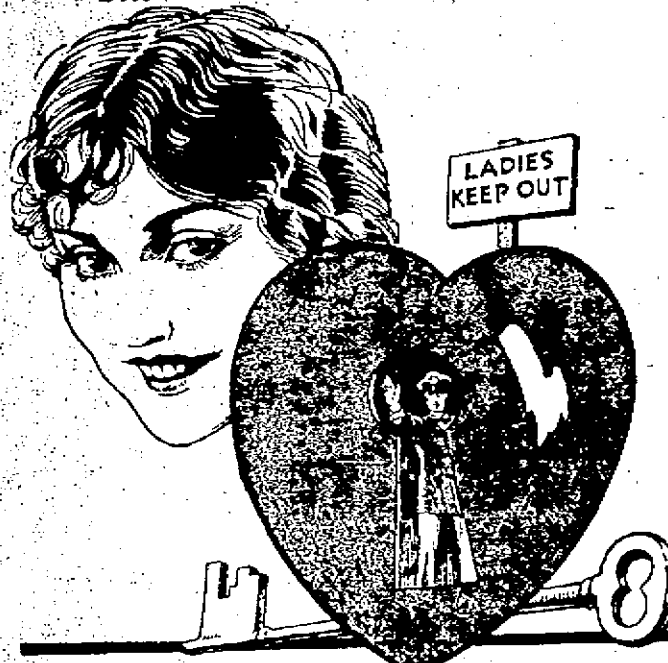

The body as viewed from the gorge bank appeared to be that of a young woman with long dark hair, clothed in a light waist and dark skirt.

Efforts were made to reach the body by a row boat but the men were compelled to give up this plan because of the jagged rocks. Reservation workers will try to recover the body by using a crane. Authorities believe the body floated down the river and passed over the falls last night.

Local Colored Citizens Going To Commencement

That the colored people of Portsmouth are believers in the elevation of their race through education is demonstrated by the large delegation that will leave the city by automobile Wednesday evening headed by John W. Evans to attend the commencement exercises of Wilberforce University which is located at Xenia, Ohio.

The commencement exercises will be held Thursday, June 19th, at which time a class of four hundred and thirty-five young men and women will receive their diplomas certifying that they have completed a full collegiate course which prepares them to enter the ranks of educators for the coming generation or to further pursue their studies in the arts and sciences for service in the professions and ministry.

In addition to the commencement exercises and in line with the progressive spirit of their race, a magnificent new dormitory at the college will be dedicated to education. It has just been completed at a cost of three hundred thousand dollars.

The money for this improvement has been raised among the A. M. E. churches of Ohio and in this work Portsmouth has played its part. John W. Evans as financial agent for Wilberforce University for Southern Ohio has done splendid work in enlisting this section of the race to do its duty and with splendid success.

Rev. T. D. Scott, minister of Allen Chapel, A. M. E. church, is a trustee of Wilberforce University and he and Mrs. Scott accompanied by Mrs. L. E. White have gone to Xenia to attend a business session of the trustees which will be held in advance of the commencement and dedication ceremonies.

Suppression of the French embassy at the Vatican is another feature of the foreign policy.

Must Prove Good Faith
PARIS, June 17.—(By the A. P.)—France's new president, in his first message to parliament today declared Germany, before the Daves report, was put into effect must prove her good faith. Such proof, he insisted, must come from facts and not from mere promises without previous assurance of fulfillment.

France's conciliatory spirit, which is sincere and indisputable, he continued, "cannot go so far as to nullify the lessons of the past."

The president laid stress on the statement that France could not renounce her own force nor the control which the treaties give her the right to exercise over Germany. It was commented in political quarters that the new president in his message which Premier Herriot had counter-signed, lines himself solidly with Mr. Herriot's announced foreign policy. It was commented also that the statement appeared to differ little in its attitude from that of ex-President Millerand and former Premier Poincaré with Germany.

"In dealing with the report of the reparations experts," President Doumergue said, "France has hastened to subscribe to the report to prove our conciliatory spirit" and he added that since publication of the report the reparations question seemed "bound to evolve toward a solution in the near future." He declared however, that France could not relax her vigilance with regard to a "vague promise" if she were instead of seeking to keep the promise she had signed.

"The parliament, like the country-at-large, he said, desires peace abroad and at home and 'will busy itself, I am convinced, in founding both on solid bases, of which justice is one of the pillars.'"

The declaration calls for prompt ratification of the remaining treaties signed at the Washington armament conference and of the international labor convention and the conclusion of peace with Turkey.

"caution." Relays will be established in various parts of the country for the benefit of those with short range receiving sets.

While McAdoo, leaders reiterated statements that the McAdoo forces would make no convention fight for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule, it was admitted that Governor W. J. Fields of Kentucky would come to the New York office has virtually taken charge of his own campaign. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the Smith campaign, has in no sense been displaced. It is explained, but the governor here after will be in direct touch with his own campaign organization and will see personally his supporters from other states as they begin to arrive.

The governor said he had received information that he had gained in strength considerably in the west in the last few days. His supporters also were said to have received assurances from Democratic officials in several southern states that he would carry them if nominated.

Communists

of Illinois, former head of the United Mine Workers of that state, and William Bonck of the state of Washington for President and Vice President respectively. We expect to put a ticket in the field in at least forty states in the coming election. We have already been organized and have considerable strength in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana and Washington, and this year we have organizations in Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado.

The platform to be adopted will be along the lines of the Farmer-Labor party program part of which demands social legislation for the farmer and worker. To understand the situation here, it is necessary to appreciate that in the Minnesota primaries this week, the communists who are really the left wing or radicals, of the Farmer-Labor party have entered a complete ticket and even a man to oppose Senator Magnus Johnson, who is a conservative. The communists realize they are in the minority and, of course, if their ticket loses, they will support Magnus Johnson and any other candidates who will win the farmer labor party.

It so happens that the farmer labor party is the dominant political body in this state as the Democratic party has been virtually obliterated while most of the Republicans have joined the Farmer-Labor party. Under such circumstances it is inevitable that the Farmer Labor party should in turn develop a radical and conservative faction.

Mr. Rutheberg explains that while the ultimate aim of the communists which he represents is "the dictation of the government by the proletariat and the introduction of the Soviet system," such a goal is not readily reached and that it is wiser to follow the methods of political action through the regular constitutional processes until such time of course, as the communists gain sufficient strength to overcome constitutional barriers.

The writer asked Mr. Rutheberg how he defined the essential difference between Senator LaFollette and the communists.

"Well," he said, "to our way of thinking Senator LaFollette is not even a radical. He believes in the capitalist system but we believe in the Soviet system. He has always been a Republican. He did not even bolt the Republican party in 1912."

"This convention holds itself more or less aloof from the conference for progressive political action which is to take place in Cleveland on July 14th and which is expected to endorse Senator LaFollette. Some of the leaders here are doubtful whether the Cleveland conference will make any progress. They have the idea that William Gibbs McAdoo through his friendship with the heads of the railway brotherhoods will have considerable following in that convention and that if by chance he has been nominated by the Democrats in New York there will be a determined effort made by his friends to secure an endorsement for him at Cleveland in which case Senator LaFollette might not wish to run for he is represented here as believing he might not make the race unless he has the united support of all the elements at the Cleveland conference.

Asked for his comments on the Republican tickets, Mr. Rutheberg said: "Most of us feel that with a strikebreaker at the head of the ticket (referring to Mr. Coolidge's name in the Boston column) and a Fascist for Vice President, the Republicans have done exactly what might have been expected of them and made it all the more necessary that Labor should be thoroughly organized."

Calls To

of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party, which has been so successful in this state, he declared.

Minnes Politician For Attack
"It was a cruel and unwarranted attitude for Senator LaFollette to take" he said. "The usual kind of attack includes one to the belief that the affair was not of his making, but was hatched up by labor politicians in Washington who are opposed to the organization of a National Farmer-Labor party and induced LaFollette to assassinate a movement that threatened to displace the service of high priced labor lobbyists."

But Mahoney at the same time made clear that there must be no disruptions of progressive ranks, as in former presidential campaigns when the Farmer-Labor party advanced one upon and the Socialists another.

"Of his he is to lay the foundation of a movement that will provide a place for every earnest human being to help along in the movement for our common emancipation," he said. "To accomplish this we must have harmony, unity and co-operation." Mahoney began with an explanation of the origin of the convention. Last November when "it was never realized that so many and such diverse obstacles would be encountered."

To See Convention Through
"It was thought then that it was a thing which every progressive element in America wanted and would give its support to," he said. "We have since learned, however, to our great surprise and sorrow that we were encroaching on sacred ground and infringing the prerogatives of certain would-be great political leaders and organizations and instead of getting wholehearted and general support, we have had to overcome the most energetic and malignant opposition."

"The character and extent of this very opposition has, however, had the effect of stimulating our desire and determination to see this convention through, and we are now determined to give its support to," he said. "We have since learned, however, to our great surprise and sorrow that we were encroaching on sacred ground and infringing the prerogatives of certain would-be great political leaders and organizations and instead of getting wholehearted and general support, we have had to overcome the most energetic and malignant opposition."

"There is nothing revolutionary in our movement. In Minnesota it has been conducted along regular constitutional lines. But the idea or proposition of workers on the farms and in the factory and on the railroads, in the mines, stores offices and school rooms, joining together in a great political movement as useful workers and useful producers for the purpose of vindicating their right to work and enjoy the full proceeds of their labor, is considered revolutionary because it will mean the end of exploitation and the overthrow of plutocratic rule."

Mahoney pointed with pride to the success of the farmer-labor movement in Minnesota, where two U. S. Senators have been elected. He said the same success must now be accomplished on a national scale. Other states must be converted. The hour for the struggle is now at hand.

"Minnesota has served as a labor-

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation until I found this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:
After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation."

I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps clean and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100% per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and crumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

DANIEL BOONE

A RHYMED REVIEW

By Eloise Byron

Oh, money isn't everything,
(Although it often comes in handy)
That is the moral that I sing:
Consider little Sally Kaudy.

She was in love with Jerry Welden,
The sort of man of whom girls dream;
With men, the sort of chap who's held in
The highest possible esteem.

But Sally's mother wed her to Duke Malukoff, a little Russian;
(To give the Duke the devil's due,
He caused the ladies some discussion.)

The Duke was really quite a Shlek,
He specialized in Love and Women;
He worked with Art and with Technique,
There was no mess you could get HIM in.

He was, in short an awful rouser,
But still he was a Duke; and so
Poor Sally had to wed the bouncer,
Though Jerry was her Only Beau.

To learn WHAT happened then—and HOW—
And WHY and WHEN and also WHICH,
You'd better see the picture NOW,
Its name is "DAUGHTERS OF THE RICH."

He is bewitched! We cannot harm him! Daniel Boone was loved and feared by the Indians. But they persecuted him. They burned Boonesboro's crops and attacked the settlement. But every fresh offense but further proved to them that Boone's life was "charmed."

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS RESPONSIBLE FOR DRY ENFORCEMENT TROUBLES, SAYS MRS. WILLEBRANDT

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(By the United Press.)—Politics and politicians are responsible for most prohibition enforcement troubles, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, told the Senate Judiciary investigating committee in three hours of breezy testimony today.

Senators and congressmen themselves made enforcement hard by unreasonable requests for issuance of whiskey permits to persons who shouldn't have them and for appointment of men as dry agents who are "crooks or useless," Mrs. Willebrandt said.

For three hours, Mrs. Willebrandt, in full charge of prohibition prosecutions for the government and nemesis of thousands of bootleggers, indignantly refuted charges of laxity and inefficiency of enforcement by the justice department and threw the accusations back in the faces of the senators.

DEFENSE ADMINISTRATION
WASHINGTON, June 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—As the chief official of the department of justice charged with enforcing prohibition, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, submitted a testimony before the Senate Judiciary investigating committee.

Many times in the prolonged hearings witnesses have made charges against the enforcement regime, Mrs. Willebrandt went into detail of these accusations at length introducing at one point a letter from Attorney General Stone which said that much of the impressions.

"The point I am making," Mrs. Willebrandt said, "is that many witnesses have given you testimony against the department of justice when in fact their real grievance lay against another branch of the government."

On several occasions she told Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, to "wait a minute" when he sought to intervene in her spiced account.

Senator Wheeler finally broke in: "Oh, I know that this whiskey business is continually kicked around by the prohibition unit and the department of justice," he said, "but the department of justice has responsibility which it cannot evade, and has a $2,000,000 annual appropriation for detecting crime."

"Yes, and the prohibition unit is given $13,000,000," Mrs. Willebrandt exclaimed.

"Notwithstanding the department of justice is not justified by saying it won't do any of the detective work against bootlegging," Senator Wheeler retorted.

"Of course, the national prohibition act places upon the commissioner of internal revenue and the department of justice joint responsibility for enforcement of prohibition," Mrs. Willebrandt interjected, "but members of Congress know when they enact legislation that it is not reasonable to have one bureau of the government running over and taking on the duties and responsibilities of another."

Mrs. Willebrandt remarked that section 28 of the Volstead act was a fool provision because it did not allow the effective confiscation of automobiles or marine vessels used in unlawful transportation of liquor.

Too Much Politics
Taking issue with Senator Wheeler who insisted that the main trouble with prohibition enforcement was a shifting of responsibility on the part of officials, Mrs. Willebrandt contended that political control over agents was the most serious factor.

"The real trouble," she declared, "is not passing the buck, but the influence of politicians through some senator or congressman in aiding or blocking an agent's appointment."

Mrs. Willebrandt said three months training should be given an agent before he is placed in the field. She defended agents of the department of justice, contending they lacked funds and numbers to cope with all cases of law violations.

Continuing that the department had been doing all in its power to punish law violators, Mrs. Willebrandt asserted that during the closing days of the Wilson administration—from election day, 1920, until March 4, 1921—"things ran wide open with regard to the issuance of liquor withdrawal permits and other phases of prohibition enforcement."

With reference to the executive clemency obtained by Philip Grossman, of Chicago, Mrs. Willebrandt said there was no doubt but that the corrupt local political ring out in Chicago kept him out of jail.

John W. H. Crim, special assistant to the attorney general, intervened when Mrs. Willebrandt refused to say whether local officials of the department of justice at Chicago had concealed the facts in making up the pardon record.

"There's no doubt at all that some body in the United States marshal's office in Chicago knew that Grossman was being kept out of jail," Mr. Crim said, "and that's all there is to that case."

Prosecuted Big Bootleggers
Mrs. Willebrandt declared the successful prosecution of large scale bootleggers at Atlanta brought up in the testimony, had been a most successful endeavor of the department of justice and that the evidence had only been prepared for conviction by many months of constant and patient "under cover work" of secret agents. A more spirited phase of Mrs. Willebrandt's examination was entered upon when the names of George Remus, whose Ohio bootlegging operations involved immense sums of money and huge quantities of liquor, before he landed in Atlanta penitentiary, and of Jess Smith, to whom Remus testified he paid about $250,000 in bribe money, were brought in. She said Remus had fought conviction "dead along the line up to the White House."

"I'll be frank with you," she continued. "A request for a stay of sentence in Remus' behalf was sent to the White House by Senator Reed (Democrat, Missouri) following a visit to the White House which Senator Reed made. The department was then asked to make a report."

"Wasn't the request signed by President Coolidge," Senator Wheeler demanded.

Remus in Atlanta Pen
"I don't so remember," Mrs. Willebrandt said, "but in spite of the effort made in Remus' behalf he is in Atlanta."

BRANCH RICKEY TO PARTICIPATE IN WESLEYAN'S VARSITY-ALUMNI GAME

DELAWARE, O., June 17.—Class exercises opened today's program of festivities for Ohio Wesleyan's eightieth annual commencement here this morning. Following the annual alumni business meeting, graduates who had returned for the alumni day celebration formed their parade and marched to Edward's gymnasium for the annual alumni luncheon. The majority of classes from that of 1860 to the present were represented in the annual procession.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, Boston, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, presided at the luncheon. The annual alumni-graduate baseball game with Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals among the old grid players will get under way late this afternoon following the luncheon.

A promenade concert and the president's annual reception upon the campus are scheduled for this evening and will be followed by banquets of the Greek lettered fraternities.

Graduation exercises proper close the commencement of the festivities Wednesday morning. Bachelor of arts degrees will be conferred upon 205 seniors in the college of liberal arts while four will graduate from the school of fine arts and ten from the school of music.

Trustees at their annual meeting yesterday voted to take immediate steps to restore the famous Sulphur Spring, center of many of the university's traditions and meet of hundreds of returning alumni each year. The spring ceased to flow regularly some two years ago following the drilling of a well by a local creamery near the campus.

FEATURES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES

Detroit climbed to within a few points of second place by scoring a shutout over the struggling Red Sox, 3 to 2. Al Stouer let his opponents down with six hits.

The Browns moved up to fifth place by pounding out a ten-to-two win over the Athletics. Collins took the heart out of Connie Mack's charges in the seventh when he hit a homer, with three on.

U. S. Athletes Are Off For The Olympic Games

NEW YORK, June 17.—Accompanied by blasts of farewells from river craft and the shouts of hundreds, the United States Liner, America, carrying the main division of the army of athletes composing the American Olympic team, steamed for France today in quest of international athletic supremacy against competition from virtually every civilized nation in the world.

Three hundred and twenty stars, selected from a field of 10,000 contestants, members of the American Olympic committee and friends, lined the decks of the America as she backed out of her pier.

Track and field men, boxer, swimmers, wrestlers, fencers, gymnasts and a complete staff of American coaches composed the unit on the America today. Col. Robert M. Thompson, President, Frederick W. Rubin, secretary and John T. McGovern, counselor of the American Olympic committee, were in charge.

On the top deck a boxing ring and mat were installed for training the boxers and wrestlers. A cork lifebuoy track stretched from stern to stern on the starboard side of the promenade deck for the track performers and a heavy mat decorated the bow for the daily rehearsals of the weight men.

Yanks Get Markle

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—Cliff Markle, one of the leading pitchers of the American Association, will report to the New York Yankees at Cleveland Thursday, it was announced today by the St. Paul Club, which last night sold him to the American League leaders.

Three pitchers and an outfielder, in addition to an unannounced cash consideration, will come to the Saints in the deal.

Last year Markle won 25 and lost 12 games for the Saints, ranking third among the pitchers in the association. So far this year Markle has won 11 and lost 4. Nine of his victories were in a row.

Lions' Club Will Meet In Omaha, Neb.

The attention of every member of the Lions Club of this city is focused just now on Omaha, Neb., where the International association of Lions clubs holds its annual convention, June 23-26. Every one of nearly 800 Lions Clubs of the United States and Canada is entitled to send delegates to take part in the deliberations and plan the work of all Lions for the next year. Omaha expects between 3,000 and 4,000 delegates and visitors.

President Fred Klingman will attend from this city.

This is only the eighth annual convention of the Lions International for it is the youngest of all the service clubs; yet Lions have won a high reputation everywhere for their good work. Their purpose is to build better citizens. They attain this in various ways, but their methods always include such fundamentals as co-operation with the local chamber of commerce, the city and county officers, churches, school boards, and especially by helping such organizations of youth as Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls.

To Attempt to Save 375 Idle Ships

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17.—(By the United Press)—One more effort to save the 375 idle shipping board vessels from rust and decay in the harbors and roadsteads where they lie is to be made by the shipping board, it was announced today.

With funds made available by congress, installation of Diesel type internal combustion engines is to be made on sixty of them, while private enterprise will be encouraged by the shipping board to take over and gradually equip the remainder on a 50-50 basis.

Twelve selected ships will be dry-docked in the near future and their rusting steam engines replaced with the up-to-date Diesel engines, which operate like automobile engines, generating electricity which in turn drives the propeller shafts. Ultimately sixty in all will be so outfitted.

Two Small Fires

Companies from two fire stations were called early Monday evening to suppress a couple of small blazes. The first, about five o'clock, at the Portsmouth School and Gravel Company's plant, West End, near Scioto bridge, when sparks from a boiling engine ignited the tangle of brush. The second alarm came in two hours later and sent the equipment to Fifth and Chillicothe streets, where a lighted cigarette butt, believed to have been thrown from the Junior Order hall on the top floor of the Buas building, ignited the awning in front of the Bon-Ton and United Woolen Mills stores. The awning was ruined.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmael, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Surichef, Ishmael's and Peter's wife. Dorothy, had urged him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson his sea jacket. Their launch hits rocks. Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, rescued, finds injuries have completely changed his appearance.

Dorothy and Ishmael go to Alaska, to return Peter's body. They do not recognize Peter, who is chosen head guide. A storm strands them at the grave. Ishmael urges Dorothy to bury him but she would first ask the spirit of her husband, whom she believes dead. They hold a séance with one of the guides as medium. She receives the message: "Change name," and believes it means to marry Ishmael.

NOV. 30 ON WITH THE STORY
You want me—call Paul Surichef?"

"Yes."
"Why, Dorothy?" Ivan whispered tensely. "He would have no message for you."
"I want him to try, just the same," the girl replied. "Can you call him, Joe?"

The native was already calling; and all of them knew that the psychic energy expended in that summons was beyond their wit to grasp. For the guide seemed immersed in a terrific struggle that would seemingly read the spirit from the body. "He came," the witch-doctor muttered at last. "He no want to—be your own."

The muttered words grew unligible, then ceased. The circle waited for Paul Surichef—Newhall's victim of months before—to speak to them from beyond the grave.

"Hasn't he anything to say to us?" Dorothy asked, after a long period of waiting. Word of Surichef's forgiveness was an urgent need with her.

But as they waited, Joe himself emerged into their familiar world. He was white and drawn, and he seemed more like a man drowsy with slumber than one who had pierced the greatest of all mysteries. The chain was broken, and he got up.

"Me no try any more tonight," he said, simply. "Maybe some other time."

The girl gave him a smile of heart-felt gratitude. "Thank you for what you've given me," she told him earnestly. "You've answered my greatest question—I really don't need to know any more."

Ivan, at the door of the tent, read the truth in her radiant face. He reached for her hands, then drew her slowly toward him. "Do you know now?" he asked, holding her and peering down into her luminous eyes.

"I know now," she told him tremulously. "Ivan—you can have, my promise, now I know that it's Peter's wish as well as my own. He wouldn't advise me wrong."

"Then I've won you at last?" "Yes. When we come home again." He would not urge her, tonight, for anything more. His plan of immediate marriage, the Russian priest officiating, could be discussed at another hour. He kissed gently, triumphantly, her soft, yielding lips.

From the door of his hut Pete saw their forms in the dusk, the girl's white blouse and the man's encircling arms. He guessed the truth and this was the first kiss of their definite betrothal. Despair swept over him like a great wave of the sea he had once battled, but the madness, the haunting and torturing jealousy, was spared him now. He had conquered that; and he must never let it sweep him into hell again.

CHAPTER XIII.
False Standards.

At the appointed time Ivan packed his supplies for his journey across the narrow, rugged Peninsula in quest of help. He took three days' rations, tied them up in Pete's light canvas robe, that was in itself sufficient protection from even severe cold, and strapped the pack on his lean, well-muscled back.

"Take I'm leaving you to take care of Mrs. Newhall," he said simply. "I know you'll do it—as you've done before. She'll be wholly in your charge till I get back, and don't let any harm befall her."

"Don't worry about that," Pete assured him.

Ivan shook his lean shoulders carelessly, to settle the pack. "I won't be back for three days," he went on casually, with no emphasis whatever in his musical voice, "unless I choose to come back before—so I can't look after her personally. But I might say that if any harm did befall her, I would chase the man down, no matter what corner of the earth he fled to, keeping after him and after him till I got him. When I did get him—"

"He passed and Pete looked him squarely in the eyes. "There was no doubt whatever that this man meant what he said, and no doubt of his reason for saying it. "That isn't necessary, sir," Pete told him stiffly.

"Well, I didn't think it was, but I wanted you to understand, in case you were tempted. I am a man myself, and I know what temptation is."

Pete's eyes blazed. "Temptation of that kind doesn't come to men of our race, unless they are perverts," he said easily. He was somewhat pale, but he lit his pipe with a steady match as he spoke. "I don't know about the inferior races."

Ivan smiled insouciantly. "At some other place and time—perhaps just before we sail—I'll give you a chance to show whether the Anglo-Saxon is superior to the Mongol. It would be really diverting for a moment. At present, both of us have work to do."

Ivan took care of the camp and I to go after supplies. "Keep up the hunt for evil spirits," he directed. "The boys haven't done so well lately. Take care of the meat and cure it as fast as possible. Then he turned to say goodly to Dorothy.

She walked a short distance up the hill with Ivan, and he turned in herself and her love for him swept back to her to the full when he gave her a goodby kiss.

"Take care of yourself, Ivan," she told him with a plaintive sweetness that carried him off his feet. "You are all I have now. I have lost so much, and I couldn't bear to lose you."

"They clung together, and then she watched him as he slipped away up the hill. Sighing, she turned back to the camp. Pete had her breakfast ready when she reached the camp, and his homely

She went on at last, comfortably on her bed, while he sat in the tent mouth. They talked easily, surprisingly freely while the lesser stars were emerging, and his pipe paled and glowed and paled again in the gloom. She felt wholly secure and at peace.

"Sometimes there is a throwback in your speech, an except of a choice of word that interests me immensely," Pete, she told him. "I don't want to be curious—but curiosity is a very human trait, after all. Sometimes I'm bold. Peter and I have been very different from this—before you came here."

"I did," he answered quietly. "It's nothing unusual, up here. This end of Alaska is a part of missing men. I don't see why the police don't look here first for them; a man who wants to get away finds himself up here before he knows it—or in South America."

"And you are exiled from home?" she asked him bluntly. Yet there was no hint of vulgar curiosity in her tone. He turned to her with a grateful smile.

"Forever. But I can blame no one but myself. I guess I simply couldn't stand civilized existence. If you'd ask the trouble, I'd say—false standards."

This had been the cause of Peter's downfall too, false standards of which both Peter and himself had been guilty. "I'd know better again," she heard him say. "I'd never sacrifice my birthright again—waste all I have. But that's always the song we exiles sing."

"THEN I'VE WON YOU AT LAST?"

When the day paled, and the dusk crept in from the sea, she appreciated his care more and more.

He took special pains with her dinner. He made refector biscuits, thin and light, to be served with marmalade; he pot-roasted a fine canvasback duck that Pavlov had decapitated with the pistol; he fried potatoes crisp and brown. He watched her devour every mouthful of her portion, then after he had remade the bed and built up the fire in the camp stove, he turned to the task of washing dishes. Pavlov and Joe, meanwhile, were cutting into strips for curing the caribou meat they had procured in the day's hunting.

"I wouldn't mind washing the dishes tonight," Dorothy told him in a friendly tone. "Maybe you'd like to help the men take care of the meat."

"Couldn't think of it," Pete returned. "If you'd excuse me saying so, I suspect you'd not be very experienced at it. But if you should care to help me dry 'em—"

They made quite a little party out of washing and drying the metal plates and the crude, iron knives and forks. And soon it was deep dark, and night winds were blowing from the sea. This work done, the girl started to turn away.

But she halted; and he saw her girlish profile in the soft light of the camp fire. "Would you like to come and sit at the door of my tent a little while?" she asked. Her voice was somewhat tremulous; but she did not try to ask herself why.

Pete glanced about him. "Camp work is pretty well done, for tonight. I will smoke my pipe once at your tent door, if you don't mind. Human companionship is very reassuring, very necessary in this North."

She went on at last, comfortably on her bed, while he sat in the tent mouth. They talked easily, surprisingly freely while the lesser stars were emerging, and his pipe paled and glowed and paled again in the gloom. She felt wholly secure and at peace.

"I wouldn't mind washing the dishes tonight," Dorothy told him in a friendly tone. "Maybe you'd like to help the men take care of the meat."

"Couldn't think of it," Pete returned. "If you'd excuse me saying so, I suspect you'd not be very experienced at it. But if you should care to help me dry 'em—"

They made quite a little party out of washing and drying the metal plates and the crude, iron knives and forks. And soon it was deep dark, and night winds were blowing from the sea. This work done, the girl started to turn away.

But she halted; and he saw her girlish profile in the soft light of the camp fire. "Would you like to come and sit at the door of my tent a little while?" she asked. Her voice was somewhat tremulous; but she did not try to ask herself why.

Pete glanced about him. "Camp work is pretty well done, for tonight. I will smoke my pipe once at your tent door, if you don't mind. Human companionship is very reassuring, very necessary in this North."

She went on at last, comfortably on her bed, while he sat in the tent mouth. They talked easily, surprisingly freely while the lesser stars were emerging, and his pipe paled and glowed and paled again in the gloom. She felt wholly secure and at peace.

"Sometimes there is a throwback in your speech, an except of a choice of word that interests me immensely," Pete, she told him. "I don't want to be curious—but curiosity is a very human trait, after all. Sometimes I'm bold. Peter and I have been very different from this—before you came here."

"I did," he answered quietly. "It's nothing unusual, up here. This end of Alaska is a part of missing men. I don't see why the police don't look here first for them; a man who wants to get away finds himself up here before he knows it—or in South America."

"And you are exiled from home?" she asked him bluntly. Yet there was no hint of vulgar curiosity in her tone. He turned to her with a grateful smile.

"Forever. But I can blame no one but myself. I guess I simply couldn't stand civilized existence. If you'd ask the trouble, I'd say—false standards."

This had been the cause of Peter's downfall too, false standards of which both Peter and himself had been guilty. "I'd know better again," she heard him say. "I'd never sacrifice my birthright again—waste all I have. But that's always the song we exiles sing."

"THEN I'VE WON YOU AT LAST?"

When the day paled, and the dusk crept in from the sea, she appreciated his care more and more.

He took special pains with her dinner. He made refector biscuits, thin and light, to be served with marmalade; he pot-roasted a fine canvasback duck that Pavlov had decapitated with the pistol; he fried potatoes crisp and brown. He watched her devour every mouthful of her portion, then after he had remade the bed and built up the fire in the camp stove, he turned to the task of washing dishes. Pavlov and Joe, meanwhile, were cutting into strips for curing the caribou meat they had procured in the day's hunting.

"I wouldn't mind washing the dishes tonight," Dorothy told him in a friendly tone. "Maybe you'd like to help the men take care of the meat."

GANGSTERS SAID TO HAVE SHOT

BILL BRENNAN FOR REVENGE

NEW YORK, June 17.—(By the A. P.)—William James "Bill" Brennan, the heavyweight pugilist, was slain in his uptown apartment early yesterday because he resented abusive remarks made to a woman by Joseph Pioli, one of the two men held without bail today for the killing, according to District Attorney Morgan A. Jones.

The woman, whose name was not revealed, had gone to Brennan's apartment with a party, of which Pioli was a member, according to the prosecutor.

As she was leaving with Pioli, he made abusive remarks to her. Brennan intervened, either pushing or hitting Pioli in ejecting him from the apartment, the prosecutor said.

"There are other ways of getting a pay than with your fists," Pioli is alleged to have said. "Look out for yourself."

Shot Down in Hallway. Pioli then left the apartment, the prosecutor continued and later returned. When Brennan approached him in a hallway leading to the cabaret, a shot sounded and Brennan dropped to the floor. Four or five other men were in the hallway, Jones asserted, although it is not known whether they were companions of Pioli.

The only other man arrested was Terrence O'Neil, a pugilist, who was captured with Pioli soon after the shooting. The prosecutor's statement was issued after the two prisoners had been held for hours by the police in efforts to learn the motive for the shooting. Both men denied firing the shot that killed Brennan.

Pioli Denies Killing. "I never shot Bill Brennan," Pioli declared. "I never even knew him."

Several thousand persons gathered outside the homicide court and jeered today as Pioli and O'Neil were taken there for arraignment. Both men were held for trial without bail. Jones said the grand jury would be asked to return first degree murder indictments.

James Challen, a state trooper, and friend of Brennan also was mortally wounded when he tried to prevent the escape of the slayer. He died in a hospital today. Brennan's sister, a cabaret entertainer, known professionally as Shirley Sherman, was in the cafe when her brother was shot.

Was Game Fighter. When Pioli and O'Neil were first arrested they described themselves as "James Hughes" and "Frank Russell."

When arraigned they admitted giving fictitious names. O'Neil is a pugilist and Pioli is under indictment for the murder in March of his brother, Santo, the police said.

Jack Dempsey, who was able to knock out Brennan only in the 12th round of a bout in 1920 was among the scores of persons who sent messages of condolence to Brennan's widow today.

To Try Second 17 Hour Flight Across Country

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y., June 17.—(By U. A. P.)—On the first favorable day after June 10, in an airplane more solidly built than the one he used last July, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, will take off from Mitchell Field in the third attempt to fly across the continent between dawn and dusk.

He hopes to alight at Oriskany Field, San Francisco, within 17 hours or less after he starts away from the shore of Long Island. The lieutenant will descend for fuel and repairs at Dayton, St. Joseph, Mo., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Salt Lake, Utah, the last three being aerial mail stations.

When the mechanics who left here Friday reach their posts at the four scheduled stopping points between the two coasts, all the humbly contrivable pre-arrangements will have been made.

As the longest day of the year approaches Lieutenant Maughan will study weather reports to choose, as nearly as possible, a day promising clear atmosphere over mountains, plains and deserts throughout his route.

'Smart Alec' Alienist Calls Leopold, Loeb

CHICAGO, June 17.—After learning that alienists for the defense in the case of Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, awaiting trial for the kidnapping and murder of young Robert Franks, had declared that the two millionaires' sons were psychologically abnormal and therefore should not be hanged for their crime, Dr. William O. Krohn, mental expert for the state, gave out his own theory as to the youths' mentality.

"Smart alecs," he termed them, their ailments, minus "long, jaw breaking legal phrases, being nothing more than that which corrupts had little boys and causes their parents to spank them." He stated that he did not believe being a "smart alec" was sufficient to keep a murderer from the gallows.

The defense alienists today continued their intricate physical and psychological tests of the youths, the results of which will be presented to their attorneys for use in the trial, August 3.

FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Bradford Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

I heartily recommend it to any woman and I will be pleased to answer any inquiries that might be sent to me through the publication of my testimonial.

"Mrs. H. L. Bradford, 109 Armistead St., Phoebus, Va. Consider carefully Mrs. Bradford's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She mentions the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

STUDENT 24, BLIND

SINCE BIRTH, HONOR

MAN AT COLLEGE

CHICAGO, June 17.—George Henry Weinmann, 24 years of age and blind since birth, was the honor man today at the 6th annual commencement ceremonies at Northwestern University. He was graduated with distinction and the ovation given him by some 4,000 persons when he was led forward to receive his diploma dwarfed the most thunderous acclaim ever given a hero of the gridiron. The cheering lasted several minutes.

Weinmann, who recently passed the Illinois state bar examination with a high mark, won two scholarships in his four years at Northwestern, and later the Koepeke award for general legal ability. He is described by Dean John H. Wigmore of the law school at Northwestern as having a "keen legal mind."

He is the oldest of six children, whose father is a man of very modest means. "My mother is my eyes," Weinmann said in telling of his mastery of the intricacies of a legal training.

Saturday, June 21st, Will Positively Be The Last Day You Will Have To Obtain The Services Of

Dr. Frederick Blankner—The Distinguished Specialist.

For the past five weeks Dr. Frederick Blankner has administered to the sick and afflicted and surely he has conducted a great and successful health revival. People from all parts of Scioto County have been making little journeys to room No. 1, Manhattan Hotel to meet Dr. Blankner in a heart to heart talk concerning all kinds of complicated chronic diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys, heart, lungs and nerves as well as for chronic rheumatism, nasal catarrh, gonor, colic, eczema, gall stones, hemorrhoids, running sores and ulcers. Every person who has been accepted for treatment is more than satisfied and feel exceedingly grateful for the privilege of obtaining the efficient services of Dr. Blankner. Dr. Blankner is in a class all by himself, original in his methods, matured in judgment, ripe in experience and skilled in his accomplishments. You receive just the kind of service you have so long been wanting and have failed to find elsewhere. Nothing strange about it, merely the use of common sense, skill, judgment and education that makes Dr. Blankner a success.

Mrs. Robert Goodwin, 401 Second street, Union, Ky., made the journey to have her teeth extracted. Her past experience in having teeth extracted without pain proved a failure and she had a terrible story to tell how she suffered when last having teeth extracted. She said she called upon one of the references given in this paper to find out just what kind of work Dr. Blankner did—the response was wonderful, so she concluded to make the journey and in about five minutes she had out all of her teeth which were left, eight in number, when she said, "Why indeed Dr. Blankner this is surely wonderful! No pain, no chloroform, ether, gas, common sense and thirty-five years of experience did the work for her. Saturday evening, June 21st will positively be the last day—you will be able to enjoy having teeth extracted without pain—with the very best possible results, and no place in the United States can you find a person that will exceed Dr. Blankner. BRIDGE, GRADE CROSSING ELIMINATION, DEPOT, UNANIMOUSLY ENDORSED AT C. OF C. BANQUET

Rousing Meeting Held Monday Night; 300 Attend Banquet

Portsmouth's Chamber of Commerce members to the number of about 300 demonstrated by their attendance and interest displayed at a banquet held Monday evening at the city's three major projects, a bridge over the Ohio river, elimination of one or more grade crossings and a new depot. Called upon to endorse these three propositions presented in the form of resolutions drawn up by the directors or special committee, the assembly arose as one man in giving hearty endorsement to the projects.

This action of the representative crowd of men and women last evening was the expression desired by the Chamber of Commerce directors who were anxious to ascertain just how the people of the city as a whole felt on the three matters they considered most important for the betterment of the city. Without doubt the formality of the occasion was the largest sessions of this kind ever held by a local chamber of commerce. It differed from other meetings of like nature in that a single person could be found to voice the slightest opposition to these projects, one being considered as much improvement as the other so far as civic betterment is concerned.

Mr. Monroe Presides
President Gilbert Monroe presided over the after dinner affair arranged so successfully by the entertainment committee of the chamber. The assembly was a most representative one, including men and women, real boosters, from the industrial, mercantile, financial, professional and real estate fields. Everyone was profuse in complimenting the women of Trinity church for the splendid dinner served at 6:30 o'clock. The large number served in record time with a menu that included fried chicken and all the trimmings.

President Monroe presided over the meeting like a veteran and demonstrated that a wise selection was made when he was chosen president of the organization for this year. Before presenting the first major project for consideration he introduced the members of the Board of Directors including Ralph Calvert, mayor of the city; George M. Taylor, John F. Taylor, W. H. Hyns, Russell W. Anderson, Frank E. Kiefer, Charles D. Scudder and Adam Frick, secretary and manager. Fred Manning, who is also a director, is out of the city.

In opening the discussion of the main topics of the evening President Monroe said: "We called you together tonight, not to feel your pulse, but to secure your opinions concerning some important projects. We regard you as stockholders in the prosperous city of Portsmouth, and ourselves as your board of directors. We want you to tell us what to do. If you have objections to the program outlined, say so tonight, or we beg of you to hold your peace in the future. We do not want this to be regarded as a booster meeting. We want the knacker to have his say. We want a sincere expression of your sentiments."

Bridge Committee Reports.
In the absence of D. A. Grimes, chairman of the "Bridge Over the Ohio" committee, Attorney Edgar G. Miller, a member of the committee, read the report on this proposition, as follows:

Pres. Chamber of Commerce.
Dear Sir: "Your committee on bridge has endeavored to ascertain if a bridge is actually needed, the feasibility of same, approximate cost, revenue to be derived, and plan of financing."

"The City of Portsmouth while situated geographically as to apparently be destined to become a part of a great commercial and manufacturing center, with its adequate water and rail transportation facilities, its future growth is circumscribed to some extent, in that it can expand on three sides only, and cannot draw the trade it should from the other, an account of the intermittent and antiquated method of highway service. There is a large territory lying to the south outlet to make this city its commercial center."

"The counties of Greenup and Lewis in Kentucky, have been slow in promoting good roads in the past, while other counties have secured the state aid they should have had in the improvement of their highways. Greenup county at the present can boast of only about 12 miles of improved roads, and this was secured very largely on account of the bridge being built at Russell. The citizens have at last become aroused to the opportunities, and already an improvement have been secured from Greenup to Vanceburg via Pullerton and South Portsmouth is assured and has been included in this year's road building plan, according to the State Highway Engineer of Kentucky."

"Also a hard surface road has been authorized from Greenup connecting with the Midland Trail at Grayson. Roads west of Vanceburg are now being improved, and other roads are being completed in the near future. These roads connected up here with the improved roads in Ohio, will place Portsmouth on a direct through route between the north and south. This route will not be lacking in attractions for the tourist, to make it popular. In addition to the beautiful valleys, and hills, Carter Caves, only a few miles from our city, and located on the contemplated improved highway, while as yet only partly explored, are claimed to surpass in grandeur and wonder, the world renowned Mammoth Caves of Kentucky. This cave area includes about 1,200 acres, forested with both broad leaf and coniferous virgin timber, with little change since the white man first discovered it 150 years ago. Three natural bridges, two of them sixty to eighty feet high, one of these carrying a county road; Tygart Creek flowing through this forest and beyond for a distance of about twelve miles, between limestone walls 300 feet high. A move is now on foot to make this forest a State Park, to be preserved for future generations."

"For those who crave more excitement and adventure, the new river track near Greenup, and only about twenty miles from our city, is said to be one of the best of not the best tracks in the country, will be brought about 12 miles nearer by crossing the river here, than via Ironton, thus bringing it in easy success to Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus, and intermediate territory."

Feasibility and Cost.
"A careful investigation and study has been made by J. E. Greiner & Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., one of the best firms of consulting bridge engineers in the country, and they state that the conditions for a bridge here are exceedingly favorable, and that there should be no trouble whatever in securing the permission from the War Department. They have made estimates, based on all information obtainable without actual surveys, for a cantilever bridge, with a 20 foot clear roadway, and one 6 foot sidewalk, a smooth fireproof asphalt roadway, such a design as to reduce maintenance to a minimum and on which any good contractor will give a five year guarantee against ordinary wear; a carrying capacity of a fifteen ton truck anywhere on it, with the heavy street car tracks, and two street cars in tandem one per track and in addition to this, a superimposed load of 50 pounds to the square foot. This will make a bridge materially heavier than the Ironton bridge, with sufficient carrying capacity to meet any condition of loading not to arise during the life of the bridge, which with proper care should be 50 years; at an approximate cost of $850,000."

Approximate Gross Earnings.
"The revenue based on the traffic handled by the two local ferries for the year ending May 31, 1924, at present rates charged by the Ironton bridge, is $80,000 plus. The records of the Ironton bridge shows that for the first two months of operation, the number of foot passengers increased 25 per cent and the number of vehicles, 30 per cent over what had been handled by the ferry, and this before the road was made on the Kentucky side. With the same percentage of increase the gross income for a bridge at Portsmouth should be considerably over $100,000 without any improvement of roads in Kentucky."

"From authentic information obtained from three other bridges of similar character, one of them spanning the Ohio river, not far from Portsmouth, which we cannot name without a breach of faith, we find a general increase of traffic from the beginning, over that handled by ferry, of from 25 per cent to 300 per cent."

Plan of Financing.
"The citizens of Pullerton and South Portsmouth have organized and incorporated a company under the laws of the State of Kentucky, with a capital stock of $300,000, composed entirely of common stock, $100 par value, and according to their charter, no commission can be paid for selling same. They are promoting this undertaking purely as a civic proposition, giving of their time and money without the expectation of further remuneration than that and the returns they may receive from it as an investment. They have already succeeded in having a favorable bill passed by the congress, and are now ready to enter negotiations with the War Department. They have invited the citizens of Portsmouth to join them in this civic undertaking on equal grounds, even inviting them to take 51 per cent of the stock, thus securing control, and are now awaiting their reply. In the event we should join them, the law provides that we can incorporate a company in this state and then enter into an agreement of consolidation with the Kentucky company."

Recommendations.
"Your committee believes there is need for a bridge, that it is feasible, will pay fair returns on the investment, and that the Chamber of Commerce should endorse the proposition, and we so recommend."

Respectfully submitted,
D. A. GRIMES, Chairman,
EDGAR MILLER,
ALBERT LECHNER,
WM. H. SCHWARTZ,
JOHN R. ROTTINGHAUS.

Adoption Is Moved.
John Rottinghaus, another member of the committee then moved the adoption of the report in the following words:

"I move that the plan of bringing the Ohio river be approved and that the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce be authorized to act within their discretion, proceed to have a company incorporated, place the stock on sale and have them to the effect of the promoting 'Bridges Company' that to them seems best."

President Monroe then called for remarks and George Matthews arose as the first speaker. He pointed out that Kentucky, just across the river from the end of the Trail from the Great Lakes to the Ohio river, had still untouched unknown wealth in clay and coal deposits which when developed will make the state one of the greatest in the Union. Mr. Matthews said that development of the coal industry in the state would mean a larger population and that the more people the more money. In closing his remarks he made reference to the thousands of dollars lost in investments in wild cat stock and added that if the city had only 25 per cent of the money lost in such investments in the past several years it would have sufficient funds to erect two or three bridges over the Ohio.

"We had better put our money in such safe and sound projects as this proposed bridge which will help to advance the interests of our own community," said Mr. Matthews. In closing he pledged his active support to the bridge plan, and said he thought the entire amount should be raised by the people and no bonds sold."

Mr. Pack Talks.
A delegation of good roads and bridge boosters from Kentucky was present and President Monroe called upon one of the visitors to speak. A. T. Pack, known to his friends as "the original bridge booster" took the floor as representative of the delegation.

sent those from across the river. Rounds of applause greeted Mr. Pack as he took the floor and the outburst demonstrated to the visitors that Portsmouth's Chamber of Commerce members are back of them in their plan to get better roads and the bridge. In opening his remarks Mr. Pack said: "We have across the river as large a crowd of boosters as anywhere in the state of Kentucky." Mr. Pack then explained how they started their good roads boosting with the election of Governor Fields who had been reared at Olive Hill in what is known as the mountainous section of the state. He pointed out that heretofore a certain clique had obtained the use of state funds in building up the more central portion of the state and had not given any attention to the mountainous section but that now the long forgotten section was to receive the recognition it should have years ago. Mr. Pack then explained how the state has nine millions of dollars for road improvement and of this amount three and a half millions are set aside for maintenance and repair, leaving five and a half millions for new roads. Out of this last named amount Governor Fields and his Road Building Commission have set aside from three hundred to four hundred thousand for Greenup County road improvement. He made mention of the time and assistance given by the good roads boosters, giving the good roads men in securing the needed improvements and asked that Portsmouth people show their interest and appreciation of the governor's work by helping build a bridge that will connect their good roads with the good roads in this state. Mr. Pack brought before the assembly the plan of the improvement of Greenup county was no idle dream, adding that Kentucky interests would not erect a million dollar race plant at Raceland. He also stated that plans had been made to have the road from the Lewis county line into Vanceburg improved next year. This will give us an improved road from Louisville to Charleston and a route into the Blue Grass section. These improvements will be tenfold to this section of Kentucky and that means ten times more business for Portsmouth. He also mentioned the progress made in selling $110,000 in bridge stock in three weeks with parts of the county and adjoining counties unsold, adding that the people are hungry for the improvements. He closed by saying "We expect to build a bridge with your assistance."

Following Mr. Pack's talk there were cries for all over the hall of "Dreco" etc. In response to this, President Monroe after again asking if there was any opposition, put the motion and it carried unanimously by a rising vote.

Would Eliminate Grade Crossings.
Elimination of grade crossings was next taken up. Mr. Monroe said that in his opinion this matter was of equal if not greater importance than the bridge question. He read a resolution recently adopted by the board of directors:

"That whereas elimination of certain railroad grades within the city of Portsmouth is of vital and necessary importance to the development of the city, as well as to the immediate relief of traffic; and

Whereas, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce are desirous of cooperating with the city in bringing about this much needed improvement; and

Therefore, be it resolved, that the President be authorized to appoint a committee of five for the purpose of investigating, reporting, and assisting in bringing about the early elimination of such grade crossings as may seem advisable, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be mailed to the President of the Norfolk & Western railway company; the President of the Baltimore and Ohio company; the Portsmouth Public Service corporation and the Mayor of the City of Portsmouth."

Mr. Monroe then asked for a reading of a motion which had been prepared during the afternoon. This was presented by Attorney Jos. T. Mickelthwait who made a strong appeal for action. "I want to say I believe, it is time that the people of this city take some action regarding these grade crossings," said Mr. Mickelthwait. "It is quite common every morning to see some 25 miles or more automobile going 25 miles an hour racing with a train going about the same speed, trying to see which will reach a crossing first. It is only a matter of time until there will be some serious accident, and I believe the railroad would like to see these hazards removed. We have been considerate of the N. & W., but the time has come now to do something. I trust you will all help to put this matter over." The resolution was then read by Mr. Mickelthwait as follows:

"That, whereas, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Portsmouth have authorized the appointment of a committee to investigate, report and assist in bringing about the elimination of grade crossings within the city;

Therefore, be it resolved by the Chamber of Commerce that we hereby ratify the action of the Board in this matter; that said committee be further instructed to confer with the proper officials of the Norfolk and Western railway company, Baltimore and Ohio railway company, the Portsmouth Public Service company and the officials of the city of Portsmouth, to urge, to assist and to cooperate with them in bringing about the immediate elimination of grade crossings; and that this committee be hereby further authorized to request the Board of the Chamber of Commerce that the Council of the city of Portsmouth take the necessary action to cause to be made surveys and to prepare plans and estimates therefor."

"I move the adoption of the foregoing motion." Mr. Mickelthwait said.

There were cries for the question. But President Monroe again urged action for the elimination of the motion, if there were any.

Senator W. D. Trempner was the first speaker on this project and stated that he believed the matter was being approached in the right manner when it was taken up through city council. He said that fair and that he was of the opinion that the improvement could be secured with but little trouble if the proper course was followed. He said he was sure the city would stand any taxation that might be necessary for such an improvement.

Explanation was then made of the cost of such an improvement, the railroad companies to stand 65 per cent and the city the 35 per cent except where a street car company uses the crossing. In such cases the street car company pays half of the city's portion of the cost. This would make the city's share of the total cost only 17.5 per cent.

President Monroe then called upon Mayor Calvert who said that if one would look back over his first message to council they would find the grade crossing elimination one of the things he advocated. He said that judging from past experience that railroads would co-operate in securing the elimination of the grade crossings. Mayor Calvert said that it might be necessary to issue bonds which would demand popular vote of the people and urged hearty support if such became necessary.

Robert G. Bryan of the finance committee of council, the next speaker, said he was on a committee appointed by one of the city clubs to take up this matter with N. & W. officials, but the committee had been defeated by everyone above the local officials of the N. & W. Despite this, he said, he had no feeling of resentment. "I would be the last person to work a hardship upon a local industry, and especially upon one such as the N. & W., which has been a great asset to Portsmouth," said Mr. Bryan, "but I feel the time has come when we must take a decided stand and secure action."

Ben Stewart, Hilltop councilman, endorsed Mr. Bryan's stand.

"C. W. Wilson, service director, in a clever talk, pledged the support of his department to the project. "If there is anything we can do, let us do it and we will do it," said Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson said that he had spent 30 years of his life in the railroad service and knew that they have to be pushed and pushed hard if results are to be obtained.

At Weghorst, president of council, said he thought the members of that body were unanimous in favor of action on grade crossings and said council would back up the C. of C. in every way possible.

Safety Director George Koerner added his endorsement to the project, saying it was a great thing for the department of which he is the head.

City Engineer Charles S. Stevenson, gave assurance that his department would co-operate in every way possible.

City Solicitor Sherrard Johnson suggested that it might be best to go after one crossing at a time, and likewise gave his approval to the project.

Jas. Hooper, another member of council pledged his support to the proposition, saying the matter had come before frequently in council and he thought opinion was unanimous for removal of this hazard from the city.

J. J. Rardin was the final speaker on this project and said that in a recent division Superintendent, D. F. Peters of the N. & W. that this official left the impression that the N. & W. would be found ready and willing to co-operate in this matter.

By a rising, unanimous vote the motion as presented by Mr. Mickelthwait, was then approved.

Enthusiastic For Depot.

The last matter brought before the meeting was the proposed new N. & W. depot. President Monroe read the following resolution which had been adopted by the C. of C. directors:

"That, whereas, the city of Portsmouth has been very patient with the Norfolk & Western railway company and the Baltimore & Ohio railway company, for to these many years, having ever, praying always for a new depot, and Therefore, be it resolved that the President be authorized to appoint a committee to confer with the Norfolk & Western railway and the Baltimore and Ohio railway and urge them to the necessity of prompt action in this matter."

On motion of Mr. Mickelthwait the meeting approved of this action.

After thanking the members for attending and the interest shown, President Monroe declared the meeting adjourned.

The splendid banquet was arranged for by the entertainment committee composed of John F. Taylor, chairman and Charles D. Scudder and Russell W. Anderson.

At the close of the meeting, Manager Frick stated that he regarded the affair as one of the most successful ever held by the Chamber of Commerce, showing that the city of Portsmouth regards the Chamber as one of its essential organizations. He expressed his thanks for the splendid cooperation which made the meeting a success.

Members of the Kiwanis club, which had given up a meeting to attend the banquet, were present in a body, and sang several club songs.

Local Contractor Prepares For Big Building Program

Edward Russell, of 2028 Seventh Street, one of Portsmouth's most progressive building contractors made an interesting statement yesterday with reference to the merits of Peppin, the new medical discovery now being introduced so successfully at Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy.

"Peppin is, in my judgment," said Mr. Russell, "a medicine of a great merit. I can recommend it highly to my fellow townsmen."

"As my friends well know all winter I have been in poor health. I seemed to have a tired, don't care, worn out feeling all the time. My back pained me continually all the time. At night, although tired, I was unable to sleep soundly. On account of my kidneys I would have to get up frequently during the night. I would get up in the morning so tired that I hated to start the day's work. My head was white and my tongue was white and coated."

"I realized something had to be done. I was hardly able to carry on. A friend suggested that I begin taking Peppin, the medicine at Fisher & Streich's. I was doubtful about it doing me any good, but I insisted it was a good medicine. So I started taking Peppin. Now I am willing to back this medicine to the hilt. It has made a new man of me. My aches and pains are gone. I sleep soundly every night and get up in the morning fresh and rested, with a clear head and ready for a busy day. My kidney trouble has completely disappeared. "Thanks to Peppin I now feel able to plan a big building program this summer. I advise everyone who is in a weakened and run down condition, or who has any stomach or kidney trouble to go to Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy and get Mr. Young who is there explaining the uses of Peppin. It is an excellent medicine."

CAUTION: The genuine Peppin, which Mr. Russell has recommended, is packed in a white and blue carton and may be obtained at Portsmouth only at Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy, 2028 Seventh Street, New Boston. There is a Peppin Show in every nearby town. — Advertisement

Democratic Feminine Politicians Planning Elaborate Entertainment

(BY DOROTHY SHUMATE)
(United Press Convention Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 17.—(By the United Press)—Political wise-women at the Democratic National Convention may wipe that bored "I've been coming since the flood" expression off their brows and prepare for a brand new sensation.

For they will see women politicians at this convention and there is no looking about that.

For the first time in history they will see women, schooled in the gentle art of politics working right up in the front ranks on an equal footing with men.

Unlike the Republican women who were given 50-50 representation with the men in their party at the C. O. P. convention in Cleveland, the Democratic women have shared equal honors for four years. They know what it is to work hand in hand with the political powers and now they're prepared to "show off."

They are determined to show that they are no longer liabilities but party assets.

In preparation for their offensive, armies of feminine politicians have already entrenched themselves in the various hotels in New York and are starting to maneuver.

There's more than one way of finding out where the main strength lies, they're carrying now—"Just watch us work."

Silently but surely they're getting the numbers of each delegate of every variety and the information is being card indexed.

Meanwhile as surely as men still stick to the great cigars, women are only women. They're not going to be outdone of their social side. For caviar sandwiches and five o'clock tea may be just as effective on a party machine as cigar smoke, they contend.

To this end the most elaborate social week New York has seen has been planned. Elizabeth Marbury, chairman of the committee of nine selected to gather the news politicians at a safe distance from the invading males and also to bring both together at the proper time, will dispense hospitality and test the effect of potent politics interspersed with such remarks as "oh, what a lovely hat!"

In addition there will be a reception committee of 500 which includes women who have presided at White House and cabinet functions and in league cities in Europe, while in the scene they pulled the silken strings of the nation's political career.

Fine old Fifth Avenue homes of New York's most exclusive 400 will be the scene of a variety of political social function from a waffle breakfast to a formal at home.

Dances, garden parties, luncheons, buffet suppers, dinners and outings are all on the program and all of course for the sake of the party.

This shows that bidding for the jobs will be unusually active, the architects believe. Bidding for the school building is June 18, and for the store building, July 26.

(Continued From Page One) des Cummins had requested. Telephone service still was out off, however, and water was only allowed a few hours a day. Cummins locked himself in the Legation last week when the government ordered him to leave the country because of alleged unwarranted intervention in Mexican affairs. Publication of Prime Minister MacDonald's statement in the house of commons yesterday in which he said the British government considers Mexico's action a grave breach of international courtesy, brought only the reply here that the Mexican government feels it is acting entirely within its rights.

Communists

plished under their own candidates. "It must come down to a matter of votes," Mahoney told the United Press. "We could swing the convention right now because we have the votes, but this convention was called to offer redress for all shades of progressive sentiment in this country and it would be a breach of faith to refuse to give away any group a hearing." The ten Communists are headed by Wm. Z. Foster, Joseph Manley, and C. N. Ruthenberg, of the workers' party. They party will have two other delegates and the Federated Farm Labor party five others. Added to this Communist strength are an unestimated number of votes among the trade unions.

Ringed Call For Progressive Convention

CLEVELAND, O., June 17.—(By the United Press)—A ringing call was broadcast today summoning representatives of millions of farmers, workers and progressives in all occupations to Cleveland on July 4, for the opening session of the conference for progressive political action. The call said: "Come to Cleveland July Fourth. Declare your political independence. Help deliver our government from the power of the predatory financial despots which now control it." Headquarters of the conference are to be established here within a few days and plans rushed for the convention. Unless the Democrats at New York next week adopt a candidate and platform to square the La Follette challenge, the La Follette party, the July Fourth convention will have "Fighting Bob" as the torch bearer of the new party.

Among those killed on the American side was General Warren. In the course of the engagement Charleston was set on fire by the British shells and was burned to the ground.

Though Howe secured a strategic point which enabled him to retain his hold on Boston, the battle was morally a victory for the Americans, in that it demonstrated their fighting capacity, and greatly increased the spirit of resistance throughout the country.

EX-SHERIFF ANDERSON GIVES TANLAC CREDIT

Man Who Held Public Office Over 27 Years Says Medicine Restored His Health And Strength 5 Years Ago And Has Helped Him Keep Well.

"I said a lot in praise of Tanlac about six years ago, but not half enough, in view of what it did for me," is the high tribute paid the famous medicine, a few days ago, by Hon. Archie B. Anderson, ex-sheriff of Harris County, Texas, who resides at 1503 Austin St., Houston.

Mr. Anderson is unquestionably one of the best known and most popular men that ever held public office in the "Lone Star" state. After serving as deputy sheriff of Harris County for 12 years, Mr. Anderson was elected chief of police of the City of Houston. He had occupied this office but a short time when the sheriff of Harris County died and Mr. Anderson was then appointed by the Commissioners' Court to serve out the unexpired term of sheriff. He was honored with reelection as sheriff seven different times and served the people in this important office 15 consecutive years.

In 1912 Mr. Anderson declined reelection and retired to private life. He cast his lot among the people of Houston and is a large property owner and foremost citizen of this city. Speaking further of his experience with Tanlac, Mr. Anderson said:

"Before taking Tanlac I was all run-down and had no appetite. I had the worst form of indigestion and could not eat food. I suffered all the time with nervous pains and nothing seemed to help me only in a temporary way until I took Tanlac."

NEW 1924 HIGH RECORDS ESTABLISHED IN STOCK MARKET

Public Utilities Develop Impressive Strength; Oils and Rails Are Also Strong

NEW YORK, June 17.—Stock prices moved within narrow and irregular limits at the opening of today's stock market but the public utilities advanced 2 1/2 points and Consolidated Gas 1 1/2, each to new 1924 highs, in reflection of a federal court decree holding the $1 gas law unconstitutional. A passing of the dividend on Kelly-Springfield six per cent preferred brought fresh selling into the common which yielded fractionally on the initial sale.

Public utilities developed impressive strength, additional new 1924 high records being recorded by Columbia Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit common and American Water Works. Kresge jumped 15 1/2 points to 350 1/2, a record, top and Woolworth added 2 points to its recent 22 point gain. Other strong spots included Sinclair Oil preferred, and Nickel Plate, both up two points or more, the latter selling at its top price of the year. Heavily developed in Atlantic Refining and Royal Dutch, each off 1 1/2, and in Rock Island and St. Paul, which yielded fractionally. Foreign exchange opened lower, French francs dropped about 17 points.

The general upswing gained momentum in later trading. Sporadic short covering carried stocks higher, although professional attempts to force a reaction were partially successful in a few of the motor and accessories shares. Leading rails, public utilities and industrials forged ahead into CHICAGO, June 17.—After more than a week's advance, the wheat market underwent moderate reaction today during the early dealings. Commodity prices were good sellers, the chief apparent motive being to realize profits on wheat which had been bought on the long upward swing of values. Under $1.15 for September, however, buying again broadened out and the market rallied to near yesterday's finish. Opening 1 1/2¢ lower, with July 1 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢ and September 1 1/4¢ to 1 1/2¢, were followed by a gradual recovery.

The close was firm, 1/4 to 1¢ net lower. July 8 1/4¢ to 8 1/2¢, the market held near to the initial move. Oats took their turn in other grain. Starting 1 1/2¢ lower, July 4 1/2¢ to 4 1/4¢, prices reacted to almost the same as yesterday's close.

Uplifts in hog values gave promise to provisions.

The market closed strong 3/4 to 1 1/2¢ net higher, July 1 1/2¢ to 1 1/4¢ and Sept. 1 1/2¢ to 1 1/4¢.

A GENERAL MENACE

THE state department of agriculture announces that it is taking measures to prevent automobile owners from being swindled by gasoline sellers.

In the course of its investigations it has found there are various devices and methods of defrauding the buyer. One dealer had his pump so arranged that while it correctly registered the amount pumped the gasoline flowed back into the reservoir in such quantity as his nerve allowed him to steal. Another pumped the first four gallons, registered it properly and then, when it was worked further, sucked the gasoline back, instead of pumping more into the automobile tank.

Just now a friend was telling us of an experience of his in West Virginia. He ordered ten gallons put into his tank. When he had gone about ten miles his car stopped. On investigation he found he had run out of gasoline. He had been swindled out of the entire amount paid for.

So the agricultural department does well to address itself to the prevention of such frauds.

Then when it succeeds thereat it may well turn itself to another abuse that has become altogether too common with the advent of the automobile. This is the depredation upon the property of others by automobile owners.

One can scarcely speak to a farmer without having him break out into a tale of aggravating trespasses by automobile parties. Only this day we heard where one party had invaded premises and robbed a small, but heavily laden, cherry tree of every vestige of fruit upon it; another where a second party had gone into a field and nonchalantly cut down a huge armful of alfalfa; a third where a garden was entered by a party, in which there were three well dressed women, and fruit taken with the housewife vainly protesting. Lastly, two suckling pigs were carried away in broad daylight.

Yet, these things are just mere incidents of the petty thieving that is going on not only in Scioto county, but in every other county where automobiles run.

Unless the board of agriculture, or some other agencies, can find some thorough means of stopping a constantly growing nuisance the day is shortly at hand when America will be written a nation of petty thieves.

HERE ARE THE QUESTIONS

CONCERTED effort has been made to make Calvin Coolidge appear one of the greatest presidents the country ever had.

He signally failed to run congress in which he had a party majority. Indeed, his failure to do so was both lamentable and humiliating.

With practically a solid convention for his nomination he utterly failed to have nominated a man he wanted as running mate. His managers, who spoke his voice, first tried Lowden, who refused point blank to accept the nomination. Then they tried Kenyon, Burton, Hoover, only to meet with rebuff.

If a man can't run a congress of his own; if he can't run a convention of his own, how can he be qualified to run a nation, the hardest problem of all?

Berlin is threatened with a beer famine due to strikes by brewery-workers. German frightfulness reacting.

It is claimed that an ape never falls in love but once. Our divorce courts, then, uphold Mr. Bryan's argument that we're no kin to the monkeys.

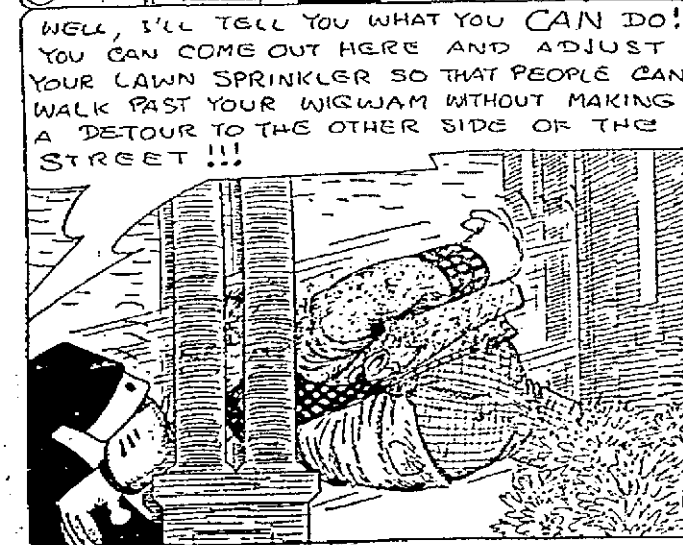

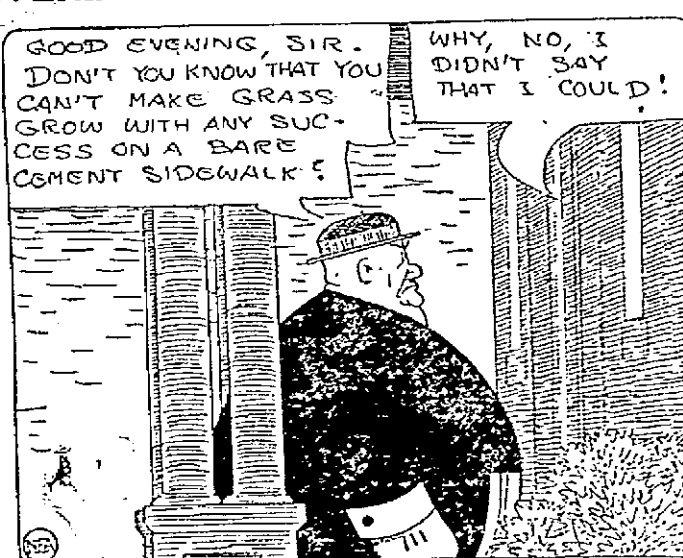

In an address to real estate men President Coolidge urged better homes, yet he himself is satisfied to live in a white house just as it stands.

A California indigent mother wants to sell her small son to the highest bidder so as to insure him a "home of luxury." That might be no kindness to the child.

A calendar fixing a week of five days is proposed in Russia. That would have something to recommend it, provided the weekly pay for seven days were not reduced.

Chicago "precocious" slayers face 48 counts in the indictments brought against them, but murder would tell the story.

Since the Reichstag has approved the German government's action in accepting the Dawes report, it looks a bit like Germany has concluded that it is impossible to stand off payments much longer.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTIRE

NEW YORK, June 17.—Manhattan plays queer pranks on some of its adopted idealists. There are hundreds of young girls who hide themselves away in attic studios and become poseurs instead of workers. They succeed in making art "artists" and that is all.

Their enthusiasm for ordinary life has jelled. They seek to float on a higher plane. They write senseless poetry and paint hopeless pictures and appear bowed down with responsibility. Their studios are musty, shadowy places that satisfy the thirst for atmosphere. The candles are in bottles. In a corner a bawling censor with coiling smoke. And behind it a brass idol. Their attire smacks of Baghdad—bangles of barbarism and jingling bands about wrists and ankles. Dirt and dust are swept into corners. The girls sleep until late afternoon and breakfast on a cup of tea and a cigarette. They yawn at vaudeville and the movies, but thrill to some trifling amourette with a Greenwich Village poet. What little they pick up financially is doing hostelry and underwear ads.

When they appear in tea rooms at night they wear smocks and sandals and horn-rimmed glasses. And spurn familiarity with the crass world about them—unless someone wants to pay their check. The chief aim in life is to get away from conventions.

It has been two centuries since Pope warned of the danger of a little knowledge, but they have failed to heed it. If they marry they insist it be a trial affair and that, they cling to maiden names. The husband must telephone before coming around to call.

In contrast to the drone are the bright shop girls of Gotham—girls whose eyes are alive with happiness. They are smartly dressed and vivacious. They have bank accounts and live in smart fifth apartment.

Now and then the bluntness of a New York night is obliterated by the white enchanter—fog. Cafes and theatres suffer great losses. The New Yorker seems to fear the mystic mist that springs from the sea. It is a city that cries for light. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Deserted
The old house leans upon a tree
Like some old man upon a staff.
The night wind in its ancient porch
SOUNDS LIKE A HOLLOW LAUGH.

The heaven is wrapped in dying clouds,
As grandfather cloaks itself in gray;
The starlight flirts in and out
Glits like a lantern ray.

The dark is full of whispers. Now
A fox-hound howls; and through the night,
Like some old ghost from out its grave,
The moon comes, misty white.
